BACKGROUND INFORMATION

Context

Contribution to the Master in International Management

Managing Across Cultures and Organizational Behaviour provides the students with an understanding of the critical role played by management of cultural differences within international organizations, both from an strategic point of view and from a human behaviour perspective. We aim for the development of cross-cultural management skills which will be critical in their professional performance in international environments and global teams.

Objectives

- To understand how cultures vary and its effects on individuals, groups and organizations, looking for ways to effectively manage the cultural differences.
- To understand human behaviour in organizations and the specific relevance of the cultural variable: what happens inside organizations and why? by discussing critical individual level, group level and organizational level factors.
- To understand the strategic role of cultural diversity in multinational organizations.
- To understand how cultural differences can impact multinational management strategies looking at the cultures in the most relevant geographic regions.
- To understand the strategic planning process for multinational organizations.
- To establish the foundations for the growth of cross-cultural management and global leadership skills.
