SPECIFIC DATA ON THE SUBJECT – Prof. Ramos

Pre-requisites
General knowledge of European Union Law and Company Law
Contribution of the degree to the professional profile
This subject will provide students with a general knowledge of the normative framework and main conceptual and practical challenges of EU Corporate Law and Corporate Engineering. Thus, it will contribute to preparing the professional development of skills useful to work in business enterprises, and law firms doing business in the EU. It will grant students tools to evaluate critically the current state of EU Corporate governance, regulatory competition among EU Member States, the pressure on them to reduce capital requirements and the EU and national efforts to reduce the legislative burdens on small and medium size enterprises in an increasingly harmonized field.

COMPETENCES TO BE IMPROVED

Generic Competences
Instrumental
To deepen in the knowledge of EU Corporate Law and Corporate Engineering and its application to practical cases. To review this branch of law critically against the more general background of international corporate law and EU Law.
Interpersonal
To exercise participation skills and respect for the opinions of others.
Systemic
To display abilities of normative and critical analysis, as well as applied knowledge to practical problems.
Specific competences of the subject
Conceptual (knowing)

- To understand the functioning of the European Union institutional architecture in relation to corporate law.
- To examine the legal challenges regarding the role of EU corporate law in a global business environment.
- To understand the legal framework that regulates corporate law in the EU
- To know the competences of the EU in this field and those of its Member States.
- To review the primary and secondary legislation of the EU concerning corporate law.
- To understand the original objectives and subsequent development of the European integration process in the area of corporate law.
- To know the main developments of the case-law of the EU Court of Justice in relation to the application of the fundamental freedoms to corporate law.
- To know the main business entities governed by EU Law instead of national law.

Procedural (doing)

- To demonstrate the impact of the case-law of the Court of Justice of the EU on the incorporation of a business entity in the EU.
- To exemplify the functioning of the EU institutions through the study of practical cases.
- To solve practical cases of policy and law making.
- To debate in class through small working groups.
- To illustrate the functioning of EU Company law directives through the analysis of practical cases.

Professional (knowing how)

- To argue in favour of a certain position based on the abilities acquired through discussion in class and exercises dealing with case studies.

- To critically analyze the legal challenges involved in the subject.
- To analyze through case studies the actual functioning of EU institutions and its relation to the very different domestic legal orders of the Member States in Corporate law.
- To be able to provide legal advice on key elements of corporate law such as the requirements for the incorporation of a company in one or another Member States of the EU and the advantages and disadvantages of using one of the business entities proposed by the EU institutions instead of a national entity.

Notes

Please see also "other materials" below. In addition, the power point presentations used for the lectures will be distributed to students

Other material

A complete syllabus will be provided.

The syllabus will include additional background documentation, including, without limitation:

- Case law of the EUCJ regarding freedom of establishment.
- Relevant EU legislation and Commission documents related to the matters of the course.
- Member States corporate and civil laws.

TEACHING METHODOLOGY

Profs. Sánchez Santiago & Álvarez

General methodological aspects of the subject

Contact hours methodology: Activities

As mentioned below the course is based in experiential learning based on case studies. There will be some theory only to the extent necessary to prepare and discuss the case studies. Therefore, at least 75% will be experiential learning and no more than 25% theory associated to the case studies.

More details to be provided in the first session.

Independent study methodology: Activities

There will be one case study for each session. Case studies will consist of real cases or hypothetical scenarios, whereby students are mainly asked to draft a memorandum providing a practical solution to the client, negotiating one legal situation or to draft legal documentation.

When preparing the class students should read the materials included in the syllabus thoroughly. The materials will include, sometimes, questions to help students to focus on key issues which should try to answer.

The Socratic Method, as commonly practiced in Anglo-Saxon law schools will be also used, so students should be prepared to answer the questions raised in the materials, in the case studies and during the lectures. All sessions will be open for discussion and participation is highly encouraged.

We consider important to analyse EU law together with other Member States laws related to the different topics analysed in each case. This is why we have included in the materials reports summarising some of the key legal issues of Spanish, English, German and French laws in relation to M&A transactions. We advise to read at least one of these reports before starting the course. Parts of these reports and some legislation of these countries will be used to solve some of the case studies.

More details to be provided in the first session.

Evaluation Activities	Generic Competences	Indicators	Evaluation Weighting
-----------------------	---------------------	------------	----------------------

Attendance	Punctuality, responsibility, respect for class		10%
Individual work/work in collaboration/debate	Preparation of classes, analysis of theory and cases Ability to work in teams Participation, oral presentation skills		40%
Evaluation: exam	Theoretical knowledge and practical application of it		50%

Grade breakdown

1. 10% attendance: refers to arriving punctually to class and remaining present for the whole duration of the lecture, respecting the time assigned for breaks and duly re-joining the class in the schedule specified by the professor.
2. 40%: (i) individual work: participation in class reflecting reading understanding of the assigned/presented articles, chapters and case studies, either by reacting to direct questions of the professor to each student, by open questions to all the class, or by spontaneous interventions related to the subject matter that is being explained; (ii) work in collaboration: (in addition to individual participation referred to above) the student will develop his/her views on a concrete case demonstrating well-founded critical thinking. The class will be divided in two groups, each one will construct legal arguments to defend each of the two positions (applicant and respondent); (iii) debate refers to participating in debates posed in class and answering concrete questions regarding the two (or more) positions concerning the debate. It also reflects general interest in the class.
3. 50% Evaluation: exam- a written exam is required where the student will reflect general and specific knowledge of the subjects dealt with in class.
