SPECIFIC DATA ON THE SUBJECT

Framework of the subject
Pre-requisites
Knowledge of the EU legal order and EU principles of law; basic knowledge of the structure and functioning of EU institutions, its legal instruments and procedures. Basic knowledge of international private law.
Contribution of the degree to the professional profile
Relevance of international litigation and arbitration in a globalized world: international legal relationships (sales, leases, foreign investments, marriages, etc.), which are becoming more and more common, logically give rise to international disputes. A professional in law, economics, politics or sociology must have the basic legal knowledge to understand the essence of how these disputes work. In this module we will focus on the aspects relating to the recognition and enforcement of judgments and arbitral awards arising from such cross-border disputes.

In particular, we will focus on:

- Litigation: This course aims to provide an overview of the regime concerning the recognition and enforcement of foreign judicial decisions in the EU.
- Commercial arbitration: We will study the recognition and enforcement of arbitral awards under New York Convention (1958). This subject is also meant to provide the student with a thorough knowledge of the interaction between EU legal order, international treaties and national law in the field of private international law.

TEACHING METHODOLOGY

General methodology of the subject

Contact hours methodology : Activities

Each class will be divided into two parts: in the first part, the Professor will give a lecture (more theoretical) about the topic of that day. In the second part of the class, a case study (hypothetical or a real case law) will be analysed and discussed together with the students.

One day, part of the class will be dedicated to explaining and discuss how to make a client briefing of a judicial decision or arbitral award.

The last session will be dedicated to the final closed-book exam.

Attendance at class is compulsory.

Outside class methodology : Activities

Every student is required to attend the teaching sessions and to do the preparatory work. The Professor will provide the students with a syllabus comprising the most relevant materials (regulations and case-law) and a concrete schedule of review for these materials. In order to follow the presentation, it is necessary to have examined beforehand the relevant statutes and case-law, as well as relevant articles of doctrine to which the student is directed to for each session according to the bibliography provided.
