Contribution of the degree to the professional profile

The purpose of this class is twofold. The first is to develop students' research skills in relation to European law and prepare them for writing a thesis. The second is to provide an understanding of the European Union and EU law in order to give a foundational basis for understanding all subsequent content. To this end, part of this class will involve visits to law firms and institutions in order to see first hand how EU law impacts at national levels.

TEACHING METHODOLOGY

General methodology of the subject

Contact hours methodology: Activities

For many, this class will be your first point of contact with the European Union. This initiation course serves to acquaint you with the historical development of the EU and help to contextualize how EU law impacts at national levels. In addition, the initiation course also provides an overview of the thesis writing portion of the MIEBL and discusses research methodologies and other relevant aspects as you advance with your thesis. In essence, the Initiation Course provides the foundation for understanding the subject matter you'll be covering during the rest of the MIEBL program.

The format of this class is a little unusual. It starts with three classes taught by Prof. Diego Gines, in which you'll become familiar with the history of the EU, the primary institutions and the law making process. From there, we'll begin a series of visits around Madrid to illustrate how EU law impacts in the day to day of lawyers in member countries. We'll have four visits / talks: 1) to Gomez-Acebo and Pombo, one of Spain's largest law firms, to talk about how EU law affects corporate law; 2) to the EU representation to Spain to discuss the EU (generally) within Spain; 3) to the Supreme Court of Spain, to explore how judges use EU law in their decisions (and we'll tour the magnificent 18th C. building) and; 4) a talk with the Director of Regulation and Competition Law in the General Counsel's office of Endesa's (Spanish / European oil and gas company) to understand the important role of EU competition law in national jurisdictions.

Following this overview of the EU law and its legal system, you'll shift into the last part of the class, which focuses on thesis writing in preparation for the thesis you'll research and write over the next six months (taught by Prof. Adam Dubin). During this section of the class, you'll cover 1) thesis requirements and expectations; 2) topic identification; 3) intro to European law research.

By the end of this class, you should have a deeper knowledge of the historical and legal contexts of EU institutions and laws, understanding the ways in which EU directives and regulations impact national legal systems. In addition, you should also come away with clarity about thesis writing and the expectations in order to begin identifying a topic and starting the writing process.

At these two interactive elements of experiential learning, participation of the students is required, who will intervene under the guidance of the professor, who will provide comments and final feedback.

www.cvce.eu is the website of the CVCE Centre for European Studies. It is consultation is highly recommended for those students with a keen interest in the history of the European integration project. In the digital environment provided by this site, students will find not only a detailed analysis of the landmarks events of this historical evolution, but also a digital archive of relevant European documents (political declarations, speeches, treaty acts, press cuts, etc.) as well as recorded audio-visual interviews with various personalities who, in different capacities, contributed with their efforts to the advancement of the European project.

Students are also encouraged to get quickly acquainted with the European Union's portal on internet hosted at <http://europa.eu>. This portal gives access to many interesting topical sections referring to the EU and its institutions, policies, the legal system, etc.

In addition, students are strongly invited to visit each of the institutions' respective web site:

- Council of the European Union: www.consilium.europa.eu
- European Council: www.european-council.europa.eu
- European Parliament: www.europarl.europa.eu
- European Commission: www.ec.europa.eu
- Court of Justice of the European Union: www.curia.europa.eu -
- Court of Auditors: www.eca.europa.eu

All throughout the MIEBL, students will need to retrieve EU legal instruments and case-law, for their latter consultation. The quickest way to find these legal texts is consulting the electronic repository of EU law, hosted at www.eur-lex.europa.eu

Summaries of EU legislation in almost all policy fields plus commented accounts of EU action in each can be consulted in the following site: http://europa.eu/legislation_summaries/index.htm

Jurisprudence by the Court of Justice of the European Union is centralized and can be easily accessed in the official CURIA site: https://curia.europa.eu/jcms/jcms/j_6/en/

This list is completed with a reference to a series of websites which will help the student to keep the pulse on EU's news and current policy and legal debates:

www.euractiv.com (this site has versions in all of the 23 EU official languages)

www.europeanvoice.com ; <https://euobserver.com/>

NOTES

The explanations of the professor during the course are supported on extensive PP presentations which will be accessible by the students beforehand.

These presentations will be projected during lessons. However, they should not be exclusively regarded as visual aids for the course explanations and discussions. In addition, students are invited to use them as reference instruments and study tools. Due to the completeness of their content, they can be very useful for course revision in preparation of the exam.

OTHER MATERIAL

EU legal instruments, case law, newspaper clips and other material could be handed out before / during classes as complementary material, or as background information to be used by the students for the practical components of the course.
