TEACHING METHODOLOGY

General methodology of the subject

Contact hours methodology: Activities

The course is divided in two sections: one relating to drafting and the other to delivering oral arguments. These portions encompass different issues/topics which are addressed via lectures and practical classes. Each class has assigned readings that the students must complete.

The course also includes several deliverables. For the written portion of the course, the students will prepare: (i) a slogan for their case theory; (ii) a document containing their "What is this case about?" assessment of the 2017 case; (iii) and a submission sustaining any (but only one) of the prayers for relief in the Moot court case in the class materials.

For the oral portion of the course, the students will prepare a short oral presentation based on their written submission and participate in a cross-examination workshop.

Outside class methodology: Activities

Students are expected to complete all out of class activities and come to class prepared to participate.
